Clickjacking: X-Frame-Options header

Clickjacking (User Interface redress attack, UI redress attack, UI redressing) is a malicious technique of tricking a Web user into clicking on something different from what the user perceives they are clicking on, thus potentially revealing confidential information or taking control of their computer while clicking on seemingly innocuous web pages.

The server did not return an X-Frame-Options header with the value DENY or SAMEORIGIN, which means that this website could be at risk of a clickjacking attack. The X-Frame-Options HTTP response header can be used to indicate whether or not a browser should be allowed to render a page inside a frame or iframe. Sites can use this to avoid clickjacking attacks, by ensuring that their content is not embedded into untrusted sites.

Impact

The impact depends on the affected web application.

Recommendation

Configure your web server to include an X-Frame-Options header and a CSP header with frame-ancestors directive. Consult Web references for more information about the possible values for this header.

Cookies without HttpOnly flag set

One or more cookies don't have the HttpOnly flag set. When a cookie is set with the HttpOnly flag, it instructs the browser that the cookie can only be accessed by the server and not by client-side scripts. This is an important security protection for session cookies.

Impact

Cookies can be accessed by client-side scripts.

Recommendation

If possible, you should set the HttpOnly flag for these cookies.

Cookies without Secure flag set

One or more cookies does not have the Secure flag set. When a cookie is set with the Secure flag, it instructs the browser that the cookie can only be accessed over secure SSL/TLS channels. This is an important security protection for session cookies.

Impact

Cookies could be sent over unencrypted channels.

If possible, you should set the Secure flag for these cookies.

HTTP Strict Transport Security (HSTS) not implemented

HTTP Strict Transport Security (HSTS) tells a browser that a web site is only accessable using HTTPS. It was detected that your web application doesn't implement HTTP Strict Transport Security (HSTS) as the Strict Transport Security header is missing from the response.

Impact

HSTS can be used to prevent and/or mitigate some types of man-in-the-middle (MitM) attacks

Passive Mixed Content over HTTPS

Acunetix detected a mixed content loaded over HTTP within an HTTPS page. If the HTTPS page includes content retrieved through regular, cleartext HTTP, then the connection is only partially encrypted. The unencrypted content is accessible to sniffers.

Impact

A man-in-the-middle attacker can intercept the request and also rewrite the response to include malicious or deceptive content. This content can be used to steal the user's credentials, acquire sensitive data about the user, or attempt to install malware on the user's system (by leveraging vulnerabilities in the browser or its plugins, for example), and therefore the connection is not safeguarded anymore.

- The tag img references the resource http://invest.ssbmultiservices.com/images/logo.png

Request

GET / HTTP/1.1

Accept: text/html,application/xhtml+xml,application/xml;q=0.9,/;q=0.8
Accept-Encoding: gzip,deflate,br

Chrome/114.0.0.0 Safari/537.36
Host: invest.ssbmultiservices.com
Connection: Keep-alive

Recommendation

There are two technologies to defense against the mixed content issues: - HTTP Strict Transport Security (HSTS) is a mechanism that enforces secure resource retrieval, even in the face of user mistakes (attempting to access your web site on port 80) and implementation errors (your developers place an insecure link into a secure page) - Content Security Policy (CSP) can be used to block insecure resource retrieval from third-party web sites - Last but not least, you can use "protocol relative URLs" to have the user's browser automatically choose HTTP or HTTPS as appropriate, depending on which protocol the user is connected with. For example: A protocol relative URL to load an style would look like >link rel="stylesheet" href="//example.com/style.css"/<. Same for scripts >script type="text/javascript" src="//example.com/code.js"<>/script< The browser will automatically add either "http:" or "https:" to the start of the URL, whichever is appropriate.

Possible sensitive files

A possible sensitive file has been found. This file is not directly linked from the website. This check looks for common sensitive resources like password files, configuration files, log files, include files, statistics data, database dumps. Each one of these files could help an attacker to learn more about his target.

Impact

This file may expose sensitive information that could help a malicious user to prepare more advanced attacks.

Content Security Policy (CSP) not implemented

Content Security Policy (CSP) is an added layer of security that helps to detect and mitigate certain types of attacks, including Cross Site Scripting (XSS) and data injection attacks.

Content Security Policy (CSP) can be implemented by adding a Content-Security-Policy header. The value of this header is a string containing the policy directives describing your Content Security Policy. To implement CSP, you should define lists of allowed origins for the all of the types of resources that your site utilizes. For example, if you have a simple site that needs to load scripts, stylesheets, and images hosted locally, as well as from the jQuery library from their CDN, the CSP header could look like the following:

Content-Security-Policy:
default-src 'self';
script-src 'self' https://code.jquery.com;

It was detected that your web application doesn't implement Content Security Policy (CSP) as the CSP header is missing from the response. It's recommended to implement Content Security Policy (CSP) into your web application.

Impact

CSP can be used to prevent and/or mitigate attacks that involve content/code injection, such as cross-site scripting/XSS attacks, attacks that require embedding a malicious resource, attacks that involve malicious use of iframes, such as clickjacking attacks, and others.

Recommendation

It's recommended to implement Content Security Policy (CSP) into your web application. Configuring Content Security Policy involves adding the Content-Security-Policy HTTP header to a web page and giving it values to control resources the user agent is allowed to load for that page.

HTTP Strict Transport Security (HSTS) not following best practices

HTTP Strict Transport Security (HSTS) instructs a web browser to only connect to a web site using HTTPS. It was detected that your web application's HTTP Strict Transport Security (HSTS) implementation is not as strict as is typically advisable.

Impact

HSTS can be used to prevent and/or mitigate some types of man-in-the-middle (MitM) attacks
